STAGE TO LOSE ITS NEWEST STAR

George Roebuck to Join Rah-Rah Boys at Randolph-Macon Academy.

Friends of George Roebuck, the seventeen-year-old playwright, heard yesterday that he is to join the rah-rah boys. When so many youngsters are swearing and fuming because they must go to school, this young genius is just about as happy as some girls who are asked to become a rich man's wife. The governing board of the Randolph-Macon academy at Bedford City, Va., and he will leave here on Thursday to begin work. There is a tacit understanding that he will not write any plays while he is there. He is really anxious to study, and he has promised the friends who recently helped him to put on his play that he will send each and every one of them his monthly reports. George was called up before the board of the academy and he went in with his heart in his throat, not that he had done anything wrong, but just because, "When they told me that they were going to send me to college," he said, "I would not have been more surprised if an angel had come along to shake hands with me. But when he leaves the academy next June, Roebuck will at once get busy with his pen. He hopes then to turn out a play that is a play, and he expects to produce it here so that he can make enough money for his second year at college. If some rich man would come along and agree to send him through college the money would not be wasted. But he is not asking that. The Masonic Home will start him alone, and next year he will be able to go on his own hook. He will probably make a good record, for he can read the most difficult chapters in history and then sit down and tell you exactly what he has read. As stated above, he sails for Bedford City on Thursday.

ONE NEGRO STABS ANOTHER.

Assault Sent on to Grand Jury, but Released on Bail.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Amherst, Va., October 23.—Friday night, in a row between the parties, Albert Venable, colored, was severely cut in the left side by Meredith Wright, colored, at the snack house kept by Venable, on Depot Street. Wright, who works at Sweet Briar, came to Amherst Friday night to attend a meeting at one of the colored churches, and on his way up in the village stopped at Venable's, and a quarrel arose between the two men. After the fray Wright went on to the church, and was arrested there about 10 o'clock by Town Sergeant J. W. Higginbotham and his assistants. He was placed in jail for the night, and yesterday was tried before Mayor C. L. Scott and sent on to the grand jury, but was released on bail in the sum of $200, with R. V. Martindale, of Sweet Briar, as surety.

Convicts Escape from Chain-Gang. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Newbern, N. C., October 23.—Two members of the Craven county chain-gang, Jails Dixon and Adolphus Delphus, colored, who were convicted and charged with highway robbery and gambling, and sentenced to terms on the roads, made their escape yesterday. Superintendent Lane said the prisoners made a dash for liberty while en route to Newbern to be placed in jail to stay over Sunday.

POLITICIANS ARE VERY PANICKY

Rumored That Grand Jury Is Going After "Men Higher Up."

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Norfolk, Va., October 23.—There is a panicky feeling among the downtown politicians on account of an annoying and persistent rumor that the grand jury has ordered, or will order, that those "higher up" be summoned to tell what they know about August primary frauds in the courthouse precinct of the Second Ward. The grand jury meets again Wednesday to continue its investigation and it is known that it has handed Commonwealth's Attorney Tilton a new list of witnesses to be subpoenaed at once. Mr. Tilton will not say who is on this mysterious list, but the rumors will be served to-day and tomorrow, and it is stated positively that three city officials and several of the "powers that be" in the city ring are also slated to be questioned by the grand jury.

COFFMILL NAILED DOWN BY COOMBS

Wish that he had not stolen that base. If he had not been so impatient he would have been all alive on third instead of being very dead at the plate. But no one never knows. Far be it from us to chide Mr. Collins.

Mordcau's Weaklings.

Mordcau, weakening fast, passed up four balls for H. Davis, and the veteran staggered down to first. Then Murphy again, and trouble as usual. Murphy should be associated with the late lamented Casey Jones, as the Cub hoodoo. Murphy whacked a terrific liner down toward second, and Zimmerman booted it forty feet into the air. Could not possibly get it, you understand. That was close, enough, and to make it tantalizing. It went for a double, and Baker squadd. Some one threw the ball to the plate, and Archer missed it clean, and it hit the shortstop. According to the rule, the bases were allowed the runners, and Davis walked home without opposition. Murphy going along to third. About all for Mr. M. Brown. His next effort was a wild pitch, one of the very wildest wild pitches we ever remember having seen in many moons. Count Murphy.

That was all. Take our word for it, that was enough.

The Cub took a run in their half of the eighth, but it was like one crumb to a starving man. Mr. Lazarus did well on that diet, but he has been dead a long time.

Barry then immortalized himself upon the altar of scientific baseball and Catcher Lapp hit the fifth ball for a single to centre. One error plus one single, total one run and a great deal of craning in the Cub bleachers.

Once more the reliable Mordcau girded up his brooms, and noble Combs and Hartsel. In the fifth, Umpire Sheridan, working on the bases, called Schulte out on a very close play at second base, and the crowd called him everything else. Sheridan did not seem to mind it in the least; he has grown gray in the service.

The sixth opened with old Mordcau still on the trail of the White Elephant. This time he broke Mordecai and Collins with three pitched balls, and Baker with six. The Cub had a chance for a tie in the sixth, when Zim singled and stole second with two out, but centre and Briggs Lord did not seem to move more than ten feet after the ball.

The seventh saw Miler Brown expend the last bit of his strength. Mordecai broke his bat on a second strike and nearly broke Mordecai's leg at the same time, and Zimmerman, coming over fast, whipped the involuntary assist to first ahead of the runner. Murphy, the trouble-maker, headed the first thing he saw for a double into the left field stand, and Brownie set himself to pitch Barry some things which he could not use.

Barry flew out in deep centre, and Murphy reached first after the catcher. Artie Johnson, tried to throw the ball into the grandstand instead of to third base.

So the game went along to the bitter end, with the Quaker rosters singing their polka little songs and waving their perky, red and white handkerchiefs. We do not mind being licked, but we hate to have people sing about us. Mr. Kling hit the last ball in the series, and he hit it quite some pelt.

Barry waited over, picked it up and forced Archer at second base.

Now, if you have any floral offerings, we will oppose no objections. Will some one start the first verse of Hymn 23?

"She was a grand old wagon, but—"

She done broke down, but—

Thanking you one and all for your kind attention, etc., etc. Good-night.

THIEVES AT WORK

Detectives Hunting Clues to Diamond and Gold Robbery. Mrs. McDowell, of 212 Jefferson Park, reported yesterday that she had been robbed of a $200 worth of diamond jewelry. The robbery was discovered only yesterday, and Mrs. McDowell did not know when it had been stolen. She was in her bedroom, in the dresser in her bed room, and on looking at a sign, she saw that the jewelry was gone. The house had not been broken into, and she is at a loss whom to suspect.

The case was turned over to Detective Sergeant Bailey and Acting Detective Duffy. The police also received a report yesterday that the store of Burk & Company, 308 East Main Street, had been broken into and robbed some time Saturday night. The robbery was effected through the rear door. The thieves, thieves, opened the cash register and got $5 or $6. So far as could be seen yesterday, nothing else had been taken.

ALL HOPE GONE

Practically Certain That Vessel Went New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., October 23.—Practically the last vestige of hope entertained for the survival of the Norwegian steamer, the Yucatan, which was captured by a hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico, more than a week ago, disappeared to-night. The steamer, which was bound for New Orleans, was reported as having been sighted by the British steamer Crown Prince, Captain R. Kirkwood, with a crew of thirty-five, bound for Santos and last reported at Barbados, October 7, went down in the storm, was further strengthened by the continuing absence of any tidings of her to-day.

Will Visit North Carolina. Union N. X. Q. October 23.—Vice-President Sherman will leave Ohio Monday afternoon for North Carolina, where he will spend a week making speeches in behalf of the Republican congressional candidates. Dragged From Buggy and Suffers Dislocation of Shoulder.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Farmville, Va., October 23.—While J. L. Hart, editor of the Herald, was driving this afternoon his buggy became uncoupled, and holding on to his horse, he was dragged from the buggy and suffered a dislocation of the right shoulder. He was removed at once to the home of W. P. Richardson, where anesthetics were used and the dislocation reduced. Hart is now resting comfortably. H. T. Stokes, who was riding with him, escaped unhurt.

His Condition Improving.

New York, October 23.—The condition of United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who was struck by a street car on Friday night and badly bruised, was reported as greatly improved to-night. His physician, Dr. H. Holbrook Curtis, said that the Senator would probably be able to take a short walk to-morrow.

Defends His Title.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Charlottesville, Va., October 23.—William Summer Appleton Pott, of Shanghai, China, has successfully defended his title to the tennis championship at the University of Virginia. In the finals with Eppa Rixey, a nephew of the former surgeon-general, the score was Pott, three sets; Rixey, one. Pott added the championship to this, and Pott adds the winning of another tournament to the other two that he has won since being in college. It is understood that matches are being arranged with both North Carolina and Davidson.

REPLIES TO MANN

Auditor Andrews Says Virginia Did Not Adopt the Initiative and Referendum.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, D. C., October 23.—The State of Virginia should have sent a representative to a rally of Congressmen at the headquarters of the League of Republican Clubs. Virginia would have shown a broader spirit by so doing. Mr. Andrews declared. Mr. Andrews made reference to Virginia in answer to a recent speech at Yorktown by Governor Mann, who had connected with Massachusetts were charged with teaching the art of secession to the Southern States. Rated Among the Biggest.

Though by no means the biggest, the books of the Jefferson Hotel show that the last week-end convention, held there last Wednesday night, was a paying and altogether one of the most satisfactory gatherings ever held in this city. The hotelmen came in and went without much to say outside of the auditorium of the hotel where the members were held, but the members left a lot of good feeling, and Jefferson and other places in the city, rarely have as many people from as many parts of the country assembled here leaving more money and a better impression.

NEW BISHOP COADJUTOR

One Made Necessary by New Position of Bishop Lloyd.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, D. C., October 23.—News that Bishop Coadjutor Arthur S. Lloyd, of Virginia, whose home is in Alexandria, had accepted the presidency of the reorganized Domestic and Foreign Mission Board of the Episcopal Church, was received yesterday. The acceptance of Bishop Lloyd of this position makes the election of a new bishop coadjutor for Virginia to assist Bishop Lloyd necessary. The council meets in annual session next May, but it is extremely likely that a special session will be called to choose a new coadjutor. P. H. McG.

The Colonel asked him "hastily" if Judge Anderson were the man who had decided the libel case, and when he was informed that he was, the Colonel is said to have exclaimed: "That was the decision of a Jackass and a crook. Yes, he is a crook and a jackass, and I don't care if the whole world knows that I said it. This is not confidential."

We have never seen Judge Anderson and, therefore, do not know what he looks like, and we do not know whether he is crooked or not; there is certainly nothing in his decision to show that he did not hew straight to the line. But even if he belong to the class of animals noted by the Colonel and is really a crook, as alleged, which we do not believe, the fact would seem to establish one case in which the Colonel cinched a crook. The Colonel seems to be establishing his own claim more and more every day to be included in the classes to which he has assigned the more or less distinguished Indian.

BASKETBALL TEAM IS WORKING HARD

Wake Forest, October 23.—The basketball team is working faithfully every afternoon, although games will not be played until after Christmas. Manager Beam is working hard on schedule, and expects to give the team an excellent trip. Hereafter the team has always taken a week's trip to the South, playing first in X. M. C. A. teams, the most distant point from home the team went being Birmingham, Ala. This year the trip will probably be to Virginia, playing at the colleges of that State, including V. P. I. University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, V. M. I., and also a game with Georgetown in Washington. Although not a single one of last year's team has returned, the student body is not in the least bit discouraged over the outlook, for they believe that Coach Crozier will develop a team that will capture the championship of the State. Two years ago but one old player returned, but enough good men had been developed the year before on the class teams to put out a winning team. Among the most promising players are Beam, forward on last year's team; Buie, centre on the same team; Combs, on last year's scrubs; Holding, M. the sub-forward on the team of that year; Holding, B. L., of last year's freshman team. The only freshman who is known to be a player are Dowd, who has played on the Charlotte V. M. C. A., and Turner, a resident of Wake Forest, who has played on the local floor.
